

IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR QUEENSLAND DENTISTS

Many dentists find endodontics difficult. The location of canals, ability to prepare to length and then obturate effectively may be challenging. The risk of fracturing instruments is also ever-present. Dentists who are uncomfortable with endodontics often allocate extra valuable clinical time, which could be better spent elsewhere.

Fortunately, with the right training, most endodontic treatment can be done more simply, safely and predictably.

Dental Sumo presents ENDODONTICS SIMPLIFIED – AN ENDODONTIC MASTERCLASS FOR GENERAL DENTISTS.

In this Master Class you will look over the shoulder of two experts as they show you what they do on a daily basis to make endo treatment more predictable, efficient and far less stressful while avoiding potential hazards.

This full day hands-on course is limited to 20 participants and will cover endodontic treatment in depth from the initial assessment through to completion and beyond. Participants will receive course notes, see live demonstrations and learn by using the exact techniques on extracted teeth during the course.

Dr Pat Caldwell and Dr Oliver Pope have a wealth of experience in endodontics. They have lead numerous courses on how to safely and predictably prepare and obturate canals using a step-by-step method. They will be on hand to guide you through the process and answer any questions you have.

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL LEARN:

- Key factors for accurate diagnosis and treatment planning
- The most common mistake made by dentists with endodontic therapy and how to avoid it.
- How and when to use an apex locator – get accurate working lengths quickly and easily. A key factor in increasing the efficiency of your endo treatment.
- Advanced irrigation tips to improve disinfection.
- How to use reciprocating files to navigate curves in canals to prevent ledging.
- The step-by-step method endodontists use to efficiently and predictably prepare root canals.
- How to obturate canals simply and efficiently.
- How to make your treatment last.
- Troubleshooting and much more

Taking the time to hone your endo skills allows you to do better quality, longer lasting treatment for your patients.

PRESENTERS

Dr Patrick Caldwell

Patrick Caldwell is in private specialist endodontic practice in South Brisbane. He graduated from the University of Queensland in 1998 and received his MSc in endodontics in 2005. He has provided specialist Endodontic services to the Royal Australian Navy and was a visiting specialist at the Sydney Dental Hospital prior to entering private practice in Shanghai, China. Patrick is a fellow of the Royal Australasian College of Dental Surgeons and a visiting lecturer at the University of Queensland. He is actively involved in teaching at the undergraduate and continuing education level and has lectured both nationally and internationally on endodontic preparation techniques, endodontic re-treatment and root canal disinfection.

Dr Oliver Pope

Dr Oliver Pope graduated from the University of Queensland and was awarded a Bachelor of Dental Science with Honours in 2006. He then worked for three years in Sydney as a Dental Officer in the Royal Australian Navy. After multiple deployments with the Navy and several years of general dental practice, he commenced a Doctorate of Clinical Dentistry at the University of Melbourne. Dr Pope has a keen interest in Nickel-Titanium instrumentation and is researching the clinical applications of cone-beam computed tomography (CBCT). Dr Pope is a committee member of the Australian Society of Endodontology and is the Continuing Professional Development Officer of the Victorian Branch.
